Dinner Celebrates 54,260-Signature Petition

This was the last event in the signature campaign for the petition to refer the 3% Sales Tax to a popular vote in November 1958.

Big County Sigs Near Half of Election Vote

The 1957 signature campaign for the petition to refer the 3% Sales Tax to a popular vote in November 1958 closed out with a total of 54,260 certified by Secretary of State C. C. Hall to Alex H. Washburn, sponsor, under date of June 13.

Signatures were gathered from 54 of the 75 counties, the principal blanks being in east Arkansas. Mr. Washburn pointed out today that while the total more than doubled the state-wide requirement, approximately 24,000 (6% of last November's total vote for governor), the greatest performance was the canvass' penetration of individual counties.

Under the terms of the Seventh Amendment to the Constitution of Arkansas a referendum petition must obtain in addition to 6% state-wide, at least 3% of each county's gubernatorial total in a minimum of 15 counties. But here is what the petition actually did:

Obtained 3% or more in 36 counties. And 9% or more in 20 counties — three times the required percentage in five more than the required number of counties.

Furthermore, in the major-population counties the signature total ranged close to half those counties' total vote for governor in the general election last November.

Top county in signatures was Jefferson (Pine Bluff) with 49% of its vote for governor.

Big Pulaski (Little Rock) and Hot Spring (Malvern) were tied for second place with 40% each. Third was Ouachita county with 39%, followed by Hempstead with 34%, Union with 33%, and Little River with 28%.

Mr. Washburn said about two-thirds of the signatures were obtained by paid canvassers. He operated hotel headquarters at Little Rock and Pine Bluff, and had other canvassing headquarters at Camden and Fort Smith and Hope.

Mr. Washburn gave particular thanks to J. Fred Livingston of Batesville, whose organization of volunteer canvassers turned in the best non-paid performance in the state. They rolled up a total of 980 signatures, for 20% of the county's gubernatorial vote.

And special thanks were given

Mrs. Gillespie's office ran up the highest percentage in the state — 49% of Jefferson's total vote for governor last November.

WASHINGTON, (UP) — The Supreme Court today freed five of 14 convicted California Communists and ordered new trials for the other nine.

All 14 were convicted in 1952 of conspiring to advocate the violent overthrow of this government.

The majority opinion was written by Justice John Marshall Harlan, who declared that "organizing" the Communist party was not an indictable offense, since the group had been "organizing" at least since 1945. Therefore, he said, the statute of limitations had expired by the time the indictment was returned in 1951.

On the indictment charging advocacy of violent overthrow of the government, the high court held that "mere doctrinal justification of forcible overthrow, if engaged in with the intent to accomplish overthrow, is not punishable per se under the Smith act."

Such advocacy, Harlan contended, "is too remote from concrete action to be regarded as the kind of indoctrination" which led to the final conviction of Communist leader Eugene Dennis and others.

Justice Harlan spoke for a 4 to 3 court majority in the case. Justice Tom Clark dissented. He would have affirmed the convictions.

Justices Hugo L. Black and William O. Douglas also dissented, but on grounds that all the defendants should have been acquitted.

Justices William J. Brennan Jr. and Charles E. Whittaker did not participate.

Clark said "this court should not acquit any one here."

"In its long history I find no case in which an acquittal has been ordered by this court solely on the facts," he added. "It is somewhat late to start in now assuming the function of the jury, especially where new trials are to be held covering the same charges."

Clark added: "It may be—although after today's opinion it is somewhat doubtful—that under the new theories announced by the court for Smith Act prosecutions sufficient evidence might be available on remand. To say the least, the government should have an opportunity to present its evidence under these changed conditions."

Judiciary Bypass Seems to Be Chief Objection

WASHINGTON, (UP) — The House drove ahead today toward apparent certain passage of President Eisenhower's civil rights bill. But in the Senate, maneuvering by the bill's backers to speed a decision encountered a setback.

Sen. Morse (D-Ore.) announced he could not go along with a proposal to bypass the Senate Judiciary Committee and seek immediate action on the bill.

Morse made it clear that he is unequivocally for "early" passage of the legislation. And he said he would spearhead a move to discharge the Senate Judiciary Committee from its consideration if it stalls on the bill.

But Morse said he felt the short-cut proposal "would do great damage to the whole committee procedure of the Senate," and that it is questionable whether backers of the plan are correct in their interpretation that it is possible under the rules.

Morse's announcement, made in a Senate speech, came as a surprise since he had been listed as joining Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) in an appeal to the Senate Friday to bypass the Judiciary Committee on the issue.

There has been talk that a bipartisan group, including the top Republican leadership, would seek to bypass the Judiciary Committee whose chairman, Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.), is strongly opposed to the bill. The committee has kept a Senate civil rights bill bottled up.

Any doubt that the House would pass its bill was dissipated by Friday's 199-167 vote defeating the key Southern effort to modify the bill. The House agreed to cut off debate and begin voting not later than 6 p.m. today.

The Southerners in the House lost their battle Friday when they were unable to muster enough Republican support to write a jury trial amendment into the heart of the bill. This is the section which would let the U.S. attorney general to go into federal court for injunctions to block violations or attempted violations of voting and other civil rights.

Flash Floods Claim Lives, Much Damage

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Refugees from St. Louis area flash floods continued to return to their muddy homes today. Nineteen persons were dead and several million dollars damage likely.

The torrential rains Friday night and Saturday in Missouri and Illinois still left their damming mark on this heavily populated area.

In Belleville, Ill., a city of 35,000 across the Mississippi from St. Louis, the water supply for some 15,000 homes and businesses was cut off after the rupturing of a 24-inch rain.

Unofficially, 13.75 inches of rain fell there.

A record-smashing 6.72 inches fell on St. Louis in just 13 1/2 hours and forced 3,500 persons to evacuate.

Electric power and telephone service has been restored today except in isolated trouble spots.

Water drained off highways, some battered by landslides.

The damage in Belleville, particularly the downtown area, was estimated at a million dollars by police.

Richland Creek, whose waters had triggered much of the destruction, was back in its bank.

In East St. Louis, Ill., a city of 90,000 about 1,000 scrambled out of their homes when the rains came. That city was reported "drying out."

Alton, Ill., with 30,000 inhabitants, was hard hit as were smaller communities on the Illinois side of the river.

In Lemay, a south St. Louis County suburb, police estimated damage at a million dollars. Belleville and Lemay were the only cities where damage figures were stated.

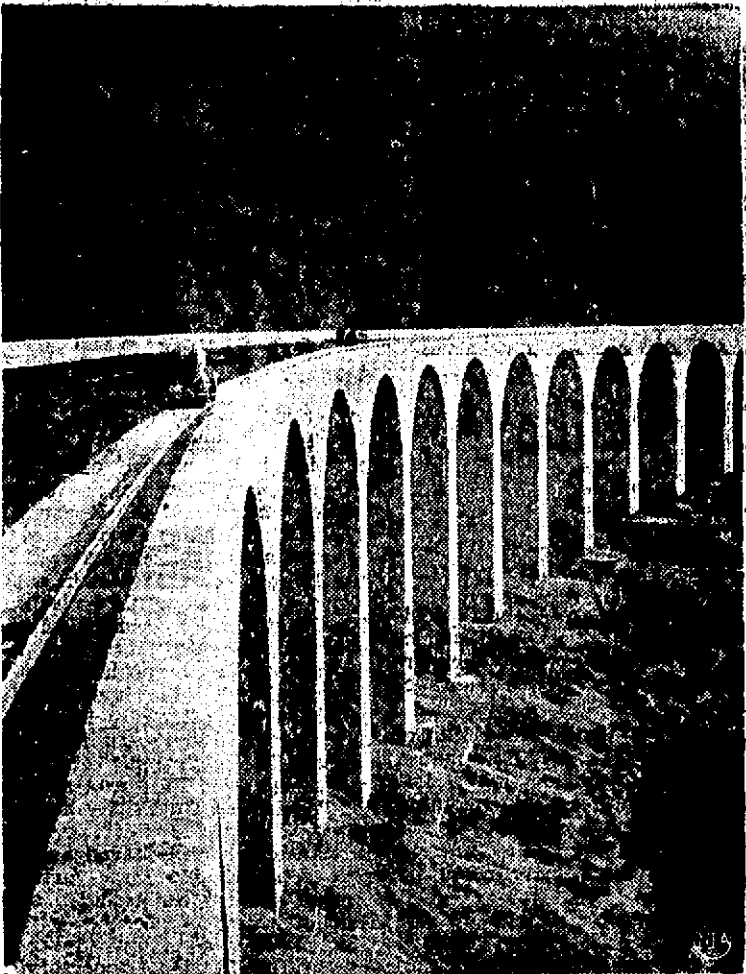

The two latest drowning victims were James E. Flether, 54, a Belleville, and Roger Chaffin, 24, village construction company superintendent, and Roger Chaffin, 124, Belleville.

Saturday at Beaufort, Mo., 60 miles southwest of St. Louis, swirling creek waters lifted a parked car carrying a Beaufort farm family of seven. All drowned.

FT. WALTON, Fla. (UP) — A truck tried to pass another vehicle and slammed head-on into a car on U. S. highway 49 last night, killing five persons including two couples.

It took 1,000 workmen two years to complete the job.

Calls Security Plan a Numbers Racket

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — You'll be hearing soon after a long silence about President Eisenhower's federal employee security program, the one the Democrats called a "numbers racket."

The Republicans, who tried to make political hay with this program for two years after taking office, haven't released figures on security risks since November 1955.

A 12-man commission, authorized by Congress, will make recommendations for improving the program June 23. This group has been studying it since December 1955.

In November of that year, the Civil Service Commission, which the administration used as spokesman on the security program, announced that from May 1953, when the program started, through September 1955, this was the score:

Under Eisenhower's program, 5,929 people resigned from the government with derogatory information in their files while 3,683 were fired because of security questions involving them.

But the Democrats charged the figures were scrambled, that a huge majority of those who quit or were fired were separated from their jobs under normal civil service procedures and not through the machinery of the program at all.

Further, they said hundreds of those listed as ousted were given other government jobs although this fact didn't show up in the CSC figures. The Democrats in 1956 warned the Republicans to cut out playing with numbers.

But the deadliest blow to Eisenhower's program came from the Supreme Court in a decision June 11, 1956. This decision was to the effect that the government may not summarily dismiss on security grounds workers whose jobs are not directly concerned with national security.

In the year since then the Justice Department, because of what the court decision did to the program, has worked on changes.

But after 12 months the Justice Department still hasn't recommended changes. It's probably waiting before sticking its neck out to see what the 12-man commission recommends.

Eisenhower's program for getting security risks and disloyal people out of the government was the most sweeping ever attempted by any administration. At the Supreme Court made clear, it went on for.

In 1947 President Truman set up a program for getting rid of government employees of questionable loyalty. And in 1950 Congress passed a law making it easier to get rid of security risks—but only those in sensitive jobs.

But Eisenhower scrapped Truman's program, limited security and loyalty cases into one program, and provided for firing people as security risks no matter what kind of government job they held. Their job didn't have to involve security.

And who was a security risk? Under Eisenhower's program it could be a man who drank or talked too much, or a homosexual, which might be blackmailable. For example, it could even be a food inspector. And that's what happened.

A government food inspector in New York was suspended as a security risk because he refused explanations about the people he associated with in private life. He fought the case up to the Supreme Court.

The court ruling in his favor in June 1956 ordered him reinstated. It said he held a nonsensitive job and under that law of 1950 only people in sensitive jobs could be suspended as security risks.

That knocked Eisenhower's program over the roof. Hundreds of people already suspended from nonsensitive jobs as security risks had to be reinstated with back pay.

The CSC no longer could report batches of people in nonsensitive jobs as fired under the heading of security risks. In fact, a whole new method of reporting had to be worked out. CSC left this to the Justice Department.

ROGERS (AP) — The week-long annual session of the North Arkansas Conference of the Methodist Church ended here yesterday as Bishop Paul E. Martin of Little Rock read 304 appointments of ministers and other church officers.

Delegates voted to hold their 1958 meetings at Searcy. They also decided to hold next year's sessions between Sundays so that pastors may return to their pulpits. The Little Rock Conference, which met at Hot Springs the previous week, made a similar move.

A Conference Youth Rally held Saturday night here attracted hundreds of young Methodists from north Arkansas. Harold Wells of Bald Knob presided at the service.

Miss Toy B. Baker of Fort Smith, winner of the Board of Temperance essay contest, was introduced at the rally.

Only King Saud of Saudi Arabia has stood by the agreement. Saudi Arabia and Egypt each promised to pay Jordan 14 million dollars. Syria agreed to pay eight million.

Informed quarters predicted oil-rich, pro-Western Iraq will grant Jordan aid to compensate for Syria's share. The United States already has paid Hussein half the 10 million dollars it promised him after he ousted leftist, pro-Egyptian leaders from his government in the spring.

The vows were exchanged before an arch of greenery flanked by baskets of white gladioli. Tapers in seven branched candelabra were lighted by Miss Sandra Russell, sister of the bride, who also furnished the nuptial music. Her dress was of yellow broadcloth and she wore a half-hat of yellow, and her corsage was of blue carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length dress of white lace and tulle over white satin made with a sleeveless fitted bodice shirred at the neckline and a bouffant skirt. Her finger-tip veil fell from a half-hat of tiny white blossoms and rhinestones. She wore lace mitts and carried a cascade bouquet of lily-of-the-valley centered with a white orchid.

20 Killed as Lebanon Goes to Polls

By WEBB MCKINLEY

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — More than 20 persons were reported killed and 30 wounded in a gun battle around a church in north Lebanon yesterday as voters assured Premier Sami Solh's government majority backing in the new Parliament for its pro-Western foreign policy.

Lebanese army units had to be called into action to break up the battle at a Maronite Christian Church in Miziara. The fight, between friends and relatives of rival candidates for Parliament, was the outgrowth of an old feud between rival clans.

Voting in the second round of parliamentary elections, the conservative, predominantly Christian Mount Lebanon district elected 16 candidates either on the government list or expected to back Solh's foreign policy. Government candidates were leading in three of the other four contests.

This brought to 34, and possibly 37, bloc in the 66-member parliament supporting the government's foreign policy, including endorsement of the Eisenhower Doctrine. Pro-Egyptian opposition candidates so far have won only three seats.

Other districts of Lebanon will fill the other 25 seats in voting next Sunday and June 30. Twenty-two seats were decided June 9.

Police said the battle at the Miziara church erupted between friends and relatives of Hamid Frangieh, an anti-government leader, and Samaan Suweby, an independent. Both factions had gathered for a Requiem Mass for Slim Abel, brother of the Maronite bishop of north Lebanon.

The rival groups started slugging at each other in the churchyard and several shots were fired. Immediately, automatic weapons went into action on both sides, spraying the crowd. One officer said shooting also occurred inside the church.

The army, after restoring order, put strong patrols in the village to prevent new clashes. The district does not vote until June 30.

with blasted lives and the wreckage of youthful careers," the statement said. It said he reseeded "the intrusion of the House committee because it causes me to lose precious time from work which is of importance to humanity."

Elises said Sherwood had become very upset when he learned two days ago that the committee intended to televise its hearings. He wrote a colleague that he had "a fierce resentment of being televised."

Sherwood had been doing research under a grant from the American Cancer Society. He was studying for a doctorate of philosophy at Stanford University. Professors said he had passed his written doctoral examination with the highest rating in his group.

PROBABLE LARGEST gathering of Methodist Men of the Church in this area was held in the Coliseum Friday night with 500 present. Century Bible Class of Hope was host to the meeting which included visitors from Prescott, Texarkana, Nashville, Gordon and Arkadelphia. Each class contributed to the program. The above photo shows part of the huge crowd.

DOROTHY DIX

Fiancee Sits and Waits While He Romances Ex

Dear Dorothy Dix: When my fiance was stationed in France he went with a very lovely, wealthy French girl. They continued writing after he came home; and his story is that he told her he still loved her to avoid hurting her feelings.

She married and we became engaged, but he never told her about me. She thinks he's still carrying a torch.

Four weeks ago Pete received a letter saying she was coming here for a visit. He didn't want me to meet her, but said he'd try to see me every other night while she was here. Well, she came, and I haven't had one date in the three weeks she's been here. My family and friends think I've been given a dirty deal. Her visit is up next week and I know Pete plans to return to me then. Shall I accept him?

JULET JUDY

Dear Judy: When Pete reappears, greet him with open arms and the engagement ring held in your outstretched hand. His treatment of you is unforgivable.

He should have told the girl about you from the beginning. Were her feelings more important than yours? He has been insulting, inconsiderate and disloyal; he certainly would make a poor husband. Don't weaken; you'll be sorry very very sorry if you do.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Who should insure my diamond engagement ring, me or my fiance? F. E.

Dear F. E.: It's the responsibility of an owner to insure his own valuables. Since the ring is yours, the obligation is yours.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Recently I invited my daughter-in-law's ten-year-old sister to visit me for a few weeks. I soon discovered that the child knew and used some pretty appalling words. I threatened to tell her mother, but all she said was "I don't care." When she left I wrote my daughter-in-law and her mother and all the salacious I got was an insulting note.

MRS. H. O.

Naturally you were upset over the youngster's unseemly language, but since she was no responsibility of yours, and it was quite evident that her family were well acquainted with her vocabulary, nothing should have been said. Mothers are very touchy about criticism of their young and rarely accept them graciously. For get the whole incident.

make it mandatory that anyone accused of violating such injunctions be guaranteed trial by a local jury. Proponents of the bill said this would weaken the legislation to the point of ineffectiveness.

House Southerners Although facing apparently certain defeat, have not yet finished trying to modify the bill. They said they have some eight more amendments to offer during the day.

Two especially will be pressed: (1) a move to strike out of the bill a section allowing the attorney general to go direct to federal court without first using state courts and boards, and (2) an amendment to require that the attorney general obtain consent in writing from any allegedly aggrieved person before acting in his behalf.

A final objective of the Southerners is to force a record name-by-name vote on the jury trial amendment, which was defeated by a teller count. The parliamentary situation is such as to leave this attempt in doubt.

Bayonets made their first appearance in Bayonne, France.

When she left I wrote my daughter-in-law and her mother and all the salacious I got was an insulting note.

Vacation Bible School. Organized Successful Session. The Vacation Bible School at Loneick Baptist Church closed a very successful session. Friday, June 14, a picnic was held on the grounds Friday afternoon. Guest speaker on Friday was Rev. P. L. Phelps, Pastor of Mt. Zion C. M. E. Church. His subject was "Victory in Jesus."

The principal topic of study was "Work for the Lord." It began with the plan of Salvation, and continued with what God expects of his children in prayer, in consecration, in study and in service. The object of each lesson was to teach the plan of salvation, to illustrate the daily up-right life of a person who has clean hands and a pure heart; to teach the place of prayer in service to God; of yielding our hands and what we have in them unto the service of God; to illustrate how a life can be profitable to God's service, and the people properly used; to teach that we should work for God; following the teachings of His Word; to prove that a life yielded to God and tuned to His will brings much satisfaction; to point out that by using Paul as an example, it does pay to serve Jesus, and to teach that our labors for the Lord will be rewarded by God. Mrs. J. E. Coby, Principal; Rev. J. E. Coby, Pastor; Miss Earnestine Jack, Reporter.

DISILLUSIONED TAXPAYER. SALT LAKE CITY - William F. Lee, local taxpayer, stopped off at police headquarters yesterday to see what his taxes are paying in the way of police protection.

Police gave him a tour of the departments, and he left.

But he came back moments later to report that his car, parked in front of the police station, was wheel-swiped during his visit.

INDIAN GUIDE?—A favorite play spot for children in Royal Oak, Mich., is this crooked old tree which may be one of the few living relics left by the Indians who roamed the area 200 years ago. Some residents believe that the oak tree, now so warped it resembles a prehistoric animal with a yawning mouth, is a so-called Indian guide tree. Legend states that the Indians bent young saplings to mark turns in trails. A similarly bent tree near Brighton, Mich., and another near Sandusky, Ohio, were believed to be the last ones left.

THE STORY: Dr. Garde Shelton has escorted Nan Stanfield to a party in Bayard. Nan is the fiancée of Dr. Kurt Lillard, who was convicted of a murder many years ago. During the party there is a fire in the village and the men, members of the volunteer fire department, leave. Nan and Garde are alone together.

Nan sighed and seemed to be looking somewhat in the thought of his ready sympathy. Which was fine. He was a man to whom others often talked of pain and grief and hurt.

"I don't know what you've been told or have read in the papers," she said, speaking slowly, "but I am sure it wasn't the story as it happened to me. People were sure I was hurt - Kurt's being indicted for murder just a month before we were to have been married. Then tried and convicted. But Garde, my hurt was somewhat different from what it evidently seemed to others. My hurt began before that awful night when Ben was killed. That happened in September. My hurt began in the middle of July, when my sister came home for the first long visit she had made in years. For you see, she had been in love with the man I was getting ready to marry.

"She's so beautiful, you know; she could have any man on earth. She even could have had Kurt. She once was engaged to him and gave him up to have a career. I was just a kid, but I remember the way Kurt and Valley were then, the fun they had, their dates, and the parties. I used to sit on the stairs and watch them. And they were in love. I thought Valley was the silliest thing to give him up so that she could go to journalism school. Of all things. Because she said love him.

"When she came home and saw him again, even after years, she felt hard. He was older and even better looking than he'd been in his early twenties. I could understand her falling in love all over again."

"What about Lillard?" Garde watched her hand twist the beads at her throat. And when she spoke, I was with reserve. "Kurt never told me that he loved Valley."

"He couldn't tell me that - very well - so long as he wore his ring. And Kurt wouldn't hurt me by asking for it back."

Garde wished he were not the sort to whom people confessed their innermost secrets and displayed their wounds.

Nan had her hands clasped tightly against her breast and was saying tensely, "She was with him, you know, on the night of the - of the trouble. That could have just happened, but well - before that - after she came home - she had done things, and said things - little things, generally, but bigger ones at times - until it seemed as if she wanted to hurt us."

Again she was silent, and then looked up. "Valley probably wasn't at all to blame for some of the things that happened. And maybe when she seemed to criticize me, or even make fun of me, she was just trying to get me to see the way I dressed and all - as she meant well. She isn't as sensitive as I am, you know."

She didn't say more, and Garde was not in a position to fill in the details of the things that kept happening.

"What about this Ben?" he asked after a time.

She whirled. "Oh, of course you've heard stories about him. Poor Ben! Garde, have you ever known a person that always did the wrong thing, who always stepped out on the wrong foot?"

"I can manage to do it myself sometimes. It's not a difficult thing to do."

TOLEDO, O., (UP) — Handsome Dick Mayer finally made it — winning the U. S. Open Golf championship to end what has been for the most part seven years of fairway frustration.

He beat Cary Middlecoff, the defending champion, on the tight, rolling Inverness course yesterday for the title and the $7,200 that goes with it by a whopping seven strokes — one of the most decisive playoff triumphs in golf history.

Playing conservatively, but chipping and putting with deadly accuracy, he shot a two par 35-37 — 72 against Middlecoff's nine over par 38-41 — 79. It was one of the worst rounds Middlecoff, who was shooting for his third open title, ever played.

"I just didn't have it out there yesterday," the golfing dentist explained. "I lost my touch."

It was obvious on the first hole that Middlecoff didn't have it. He sliced his drive into the rough, put his second on the back of the apron, chipped to within three feet and then missed the putt for a bogey five.

Mayer put his seven iron second to the apron, chipped to within two feet and sank it for his par.

Mayer bogeyed the second hole when he drove in the rough while Middlecoff got his par four to even the match. But that was the end for Middlecoff.

Mayer, "just trying to match the card all the way," piled up a three stroke advantage on the next seven holes. Then on the 10th, when Middlecoff double bogeyed for a six, Mayer got his par four and was five strokes up. It was no contest after that.

This was only his sixth tournament triumph — but it was the big one. His others came in regular PGA tour tournaments, none of them worth more than $2,500 in prize money.

In addition to the $7,200 which he picked up for first place, endorsements and special exhibitions

Actress Gets Role Marilyn Really Wanted

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD—“I can't imagine that Marilyn Monroe wanted to do this role. If she did, why wouldn't the studio have moved heaven and earth to sign her?”
“This was the incredible comment of Maria Scell, the lovely Viennese-Swiss actress who is playing Grushenka in “The Brothers Karamazov.” Nearly everyone knows that Mong desired to do the role.
Everyone but Maria. I assured her I had heard Marilyn express the desire.
“Then I am amazed,” Maria said. “I must write her and tell her how sorry I am.”
Marilyn and Maria have little in common outside of Grushenka. Marilyn is introverted, ponders each word when she answers, exudes a smoldering kind of sex. Maria is outgoing, talks openly about everything and has an outdoor kind of beauty and appeal.
Her selection as Grushenka is one of those happy accidents that make stars. She can thank the motion picture academy for it all.
“She was one of the foreign stars brought there last March for the Oscar night. During her stay here, she attended many receptions. At one, she met Zandro Borman, producer of the MGM film. Then she met Yul Brynner, who was to play one of the brothers.
“Both men told each other later at the studio: “I just saw Grushenka,” they liked her and started negotiations.

Fact Outstrips Fiction on Television

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—It seems to me that the realm of fact has been far outstripping the realm of fiction in television programing recently.
To be categorical about it, “fact” involves programs which report and interpret contemporary life. On television, however, “fiction” meaning drama both live and filmed has seemed generally tired in recent weeks; with a few notable exceptions it has offered low-level entertainment.
To take an optimistic view of television viewing in this slack summer season, there are several regular “fact” programs worthy of attention.
“Television has been getting closer to the news lately and it's been making more news.”
Most obvious, of course, is the recent televised interview with Nikita S. Khrushchev, secretary of the Soviet Communist Party.
The questioning by reporters on news panel programs strikes me as being sharper and better in the grating in recent months. It was obvious, for example, as week ago when “Meet the Press” interviewed the Rev. Billy Graham.
It was obvious, too, when “Press Conference” interviewed Army specialist A.C. William S. Girard's brother, Louis, and his American attorney, Earl J. Carroll.
Seasoned newspaper reporters who appear on news panels, improve not as reporters necessary.

Will End the Barrowed Businessmen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Businessmen “barrowed” from their companies for government duty no longer will get executive posts in the Commerce Department.
Secretary of Commerce Weeks disclosed today that government career men will replace some 25 “WOC” officials in the department's Business and Defense Service Administration as rapidly as the WOC's terms of service expire. There will be virtually none left by the end of this year.
“WOC” is slang for “without compensation.” It applies to industry executives who serve in federal agencies without government pay but continue to collect salaries from their private companies.
The practice has been criticized sharply in Congress on grounds that the WOCs could use their positions to furnish helpful information to their companies on pending government actions, or possibly even influence decisions in favor of their own industries.
Weeks' action is likely to improve the department's relations with Congress.
Weeks said in an interview he has come to believe there was “some validity” in the viewpoint of congressional critics of the WOC arrangement. But he said he does not believe the Commerce Department should abandon the system entirely.
“We will continue to use them in advisory posts where their business backgrounds can be highly valuable,” he said.
The gun had more influence in changing the primitive ways of brought by the white man, says Carl P. Russell, National Park Service Indian authority.

— Hope Star photos
FORMAL OPENING was held Saturday for Prescott's new $40,000 swimming pool, the final $2,000 being raised only the day before. And apparently the youngsters wasted no time as the crowd in the top photo shows.
The new Prescott swimming pool, a $40,000 expenditure, was open to the public Saturday after more than a year of public effort and hard work.
The new pool is 40 by 90 feet with 182,000 gallon capacity, which has a complete change of water every eight hours through a 20,000-gallon per hour filter system. A 10-foot concrete apron surrounds the pool. There are two dressing rooms, a concession stand and checking booth, all in a concrete tile building 23 by 70 feet. An underwater lighting system adds to the beauty of the pool.
Hours are from 2 until 9:30 p. m. and will be closed from 5 to 8:30 p. m. during the supper hour, Monday through Saturday. Sundays the pool opens from 2 to 5 p. m. Admission will be 25 and 50 cents. There are no season tickets this year.
Coach George Haynie and Clyde Pennington will co-manage the pool. Lifeguards are Bobby Lee, Dexter Harris, A. B. Wood, Buster Riggs, Murrah Sullivan, Bill Griffin and Eddie Haynes. It is hoped that swimming lessons can be started in about two weeks.

The pool was made possible by generous contributions from the public and efforts of the Nevada County Recreational Association. Special credit was given to Jim Nelson, president of the association and Frank Gilbert who acted as contractor.
Many problems were solved by the builders through checking the Hope and Arkadelphia swimming pools.
In 1874 Rhode Island became the first state to accept Decoration Day as a legal holiday.

Feels Adviser Should Sit in as Dulles Asks

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) said today if Secretary of State Dulles wants senatorial advisers to sit in with Harold E. Stassen at the London disarmament conference the Senate should grant his request.
Wiley, senior Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, took issue with the view of Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas that senators ought not to participate as advisers in decisions Johnson said should be left to the executive branch.
Johnson said it might be possible for some senators to sit in as “observers” after Congress adjourns or to serve in that capacity by reading here the progress reports of Stassen to the State Department. Stassen is chief American negotiator in the talks with Russia, Britain, France and Canada.
Wiley said in an interview he couldn't see much difference in senators acting as “observers” or “advisers.” He added that even if they were called “advisers” that would not give them any authority.
“If Secretary Dulles feels it is advisable to have some senators along, I think his judgment should govern,” Wiley said. “I think his suggestion shows a spirit of getting closer liaison between the executive and legislative branches.”
Johnson's opposition to senators acting as advisers to Stassen was interpreted as drawing a line beyond which the Democratic leadership is unwilling to go in assuming direct responsibility for Eisenhower administration foreign policy decisions.
At the State Department, aides of Dulles said the secretary had been hopeful that a Republican and a Democratic senator would be assigned to work with Stassen in the light of what some officials termed the “constructive” attitude of Russia on disarmament.
The administration appeared to believe it may be possible to achieve in the next year or so an initial disarmament treaty which would have to be ratified by the Senate.
One cause of this feeling of encouragement was a proposal by Valerian Zorin, Russia's disarmament negotiator, for a two-to-three-year moratorium on nuclear tests. This proposal called for use of international inspection teams to police the ban inside the United States, Russia and Britain, and in the Pacific.
U.S. officials have termed the Soviet proposal unacceptable as it stands, but they said they found cause for optimism in Russia's offer to allow inspectors inside the Soviet Union.

Lightning Kills Three Golfers

SCRANTON, Pa., (AP)—A single bolt of lightning killed three men yesterday and injured three others after a rain drove them from a game of golf to the shelter of an oak tree.
Eleven doctors playing on the crowded Scranton Country Club course hurried to the scene. They found three golfers already dead. Another golfer and two caddies were burned severely and suffering shock. The deputy coroner said the group's metal golf clubs served as conductors after the lightning struck the tree.
The dead were Dr. Horace D. Birchard, 60, Scranton, a dentist; Frederick DeWilde, 62, Clark's Summit, Pa., a co-owner of Pine Brook Iron works, Dunmore, Pa.; and John W. Whitmore, 58, Scranton, an insurance executive.
